Information on UNSW PhD Entry Requirements

The UNSW Higher Degree Research Requirements are stated on the website. <https://research.unsw.edu.au/higher-degree-research-programs>. The picture of this is provided below as on September 2, 2020. As stated

"The minimum requirement for UNSW Scholarship with admission to a PhD is: a four-year Bachelor's degree with Honours Class I from an Australian institution or equivalent research qualification experience. This qualification must be in a field relevant to the proposed area of research."

We advise that the interested candidates CV and Undergraduate marks are provided to us prior their application, so that we can determine whether the student meets the above criteria.

Graduate Programs > Higher Degree Research Programs

Higher Degree Research Programs

UNSW offers three higher degree research programs: Doctor of Philosophy, Masters by Research, and Master of Philosophy.

Each of these degrees requires candidates to undertake an original and critical research project that makes a significant contribution to existing knowledge of relevance both nationally and internationally. Candidates carry out their research under the supervision of some of Australia's leading researchers.

To support candidates seeking additional development and industry engagement opportunities, UNSW offers some Professional Doctorates and structured PhD programs.

Read about our higher degree research programs below

Doctor of Philosophy

A Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) requires completion of a piece of research that demonstrates a significant and original contribution to knowledge in the field of study.

Candidates acquire advanced specialist research training and produce a thesis that provides evidence for independent thought, critical analysis, and expert knowledge of the discipline in an international context. In some disciplines, creative work may form part of the thesis.
